

Suggested discussion points about Non-fiction books

- What central issues or ideas does the author explore?
- Do these issues affect your life, and if so, in what way?
- What evidence does the author use to support the book's ideas and do you find it convincing?
- Does the author use objective or passionate language?
- What are the implications, if any, for the future?
- Does the author offer solutions and do they seem feasible?
- How controversial are the issues raised in the book?
- Talk about specific passages that you found particularly significant or memorable.
- Have you learnt anything from reading the book?
- Have you changed your opinion/s?
- Would you recommend the book to anyone else?